

Building European capacity to meet the challenges of the 21st century

Open Letter to UN Secretary General Ban Ki Moon and WHO Director General Margaret Chan

Dear Secretary-General and Director-General,

As you know, more than six months after the Ebola outbreak started in a village in Guinea the situation in West Africa is deteriorating. This is both a humanitarian tragedy and as acknowledged in UN Security Council Resolution 2177, a developing threat to international peace and security.

We know you have made urgent calls for more financial support from the international community and we support these calls. We also know that the response required is complex and covers the need for additional logistics support, more hospital capacity, more health workers, and better support for medical evacuation of international staff helping to deal with the crisis.

We are writing to you today to ask that you request assistance from NATO in dealing with this unfolding tragedy.

NATO has access to unique capabilities that could make a difference in this situation. Some member states like the United States and Spain either have hospital ships that could be deployed or other naval vessels with treatment facilities aboard that could provide extra hospital capacity to international standards.

NATO militaries have medical teams that could quickly help to staff new treatment centres being built and CBRN specialists that could offer technical help. NATO military logistics assets (both air and sea) could fill important gaps to help important equipment and supplies reach the right locations quickly. And NATO has a strong track record of coordinating the efforts of a wider range of international actors, as demonstrated both through its international partnership programmes and through its regional cooperation to meet the counter piracy threat off the coast of Somalia.

It is not always appropriate or necessary that military institutions play a part in humanitarian or health crises but NATO is rightly proud of its role in helping to respond to the earthquake in Pakistan in 2005, and of its role in helping the African Union in Darfur. We believe that so long as any military assistance provided was consistent with the Oslo Guidelines on the Use of Foreign Military and Civil Defence Assets in Disaster Relief prepared by the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, then a role for NATO would be justified, valuable and widely welcomed in this instance.

We have written simultaneously to NATO Secretary General Jens Stoltenberg today urging him to make clear publicly the organisation's willingness to receive any request from you positively. We hope you will also be prepared to discuss with the governments of Liberia, Guinea and Sierra Leone the acceptability of any such assistance.

The international response to the Ebola epidemic must surely become a demonstration of our common humanity. We commend you for all that you are doing to meet this challenge in difficult circumstances. NATO could and should be a part of this effort. We hope you will consider and respond to this request positively.

Signed:
